2013-14 MHRD cohort approach the finish line

The 2013-14 MHRD cohort students are frantically writing their final assignments as they approach the finish line for their academic year.

These final papers, which will take the form of either a dissertation or internship research paper, represent the culmination of six months of intense secondary and field research conducted as part of students' regional semesters in Thailand, Indonesia, Sri Lanka and Nepal. Once completed, students will be eligible to graduate as human rights and democratization scholars, making them the 5th batch of MHRD Alumni.
