2014-15 MHRD cohort to arrive in mid July

As one group's journey finishes, another's begins...The University of Sydney will welcome a new group of students to Sydney's chilly shores in mid July.

This truly international group, which will form the 2014-15 cohort, will be made up of students from over 13 nations including Pakistan, China, Fiji, Indonesia, Korea, Australia, Burma and the Maldives. Students will complete their foundational semester in Sydney from July – November, before flying to one of four partner universities across the Asia Pacific region for their second semester.
